

Straits Pond

The application of weed control chemicals will interfere with IEP's analysis results, they reported. However, the chemicals used to control the midge population will not interfere with the water analysis program. Therefore, IEP recommended the midge control chemical be used as usual.

The actual spraying of midges, however, is a separate matter paid for annually by the towns and conducted by South Shore Mosquito Control. The spraying will commence this week with applications by helicopter and truck atomizers, Duffy said.

Straits Pond problems were outlined at a meeting with concerned Cohasset residents and the Conservation Commission Monday night. Richard MacIntosh of Jerusalem Road said spraying for midges is most effective while chemicals hadn't yet been applied and that flies have hatched and are in the air.

MacIntosh, who was on a citizens advisory committee studying the pond for several years, said midges weren't a problem last year because the 1978 blizzard had brought enough salt water into the pond to effectively disrupt the life cycle of the fly.

He reiterated the belief of many for many years that introducing more salt water to the pond would cut down the midge population. He suggested a pathway to the ocean at Black Rock Beach or at Gun Rock via properly engineered pipelines would be one way of creating a better flow between the fresh water pond and the ocean.

Conservation Commission Chairman John Hubbard countered the suggestion by pointing to similar areas where good salt conditions still have vegetation and pollution problems. He commented that the IEP study should reveal some important data and urged the garnering of marine information on the pond.

The MacKinnon Family Says Thank You

To The Friends of the MacKinnon Family:

Reverend Mr. and Mrs. William MacKinnon wish to express their deepest gratitude to their friends and neighbors who were so helpful during the illness and death of their daughter Ellen.

Their expressions of kindness, both spiritually and materially were labors of love during our many weeks of trial.

Our sincerest thanks go to all who proved in so many ways that we truly are "our brothers keepers."
